The tariff discussion was then resumed. The clause affecting glass was vigorously discussed, and many amendments were submitted by members from districts in which glass is an important industry.

McMillan on helpful of the committee. McMillan, on behalf of the committee, offered amendments to increase the duty on unpolished cylinder, crown and common window glass from # to 1# cents per pound, according to the dimensions of the glass.

The amendment was adopted.

In connection with the glass discussion Bayne of Pittsburg effered a communicaion from a constituent in his district, a glass manufacturer and a Democrat, stat-ing that should Mills' bill pass the glass ndustry in America would be ruined. Polished plate-glass, silvered or look-ng-glass plates were stricken from he bill and the present rate of duty re-On motion of McMillan, the present rate of duty on slabs and billets of steel was re-tained. A strong effort was made by Reed, with the request of Judge Kelley, to retain the present rate of duty on pig iron. The amendment failed, however, by a vote of 77 to 68. Scott arraigned the Republican side for infairness to the farmers in refusing to ower the tariff on vegetables and farm products, and also for dilatory discussion of the Mills bill, in trying to consume time brough the medium of artificial oratory. Reed, with scathing sarcasm, accused cott of ignorance in regard to these "artificial" discussions, and this ignorance was only excused by his (Scott's) absence from Congress in his effort to secure prominence in the world of politics through speeches in a Democratic Convention. Reed was interrupted by great laughter from the floor and galleries during his speech.

it injuriously touches the national sensorium and the whole country thrills. It is not enough that a national election be fair. It must be the national conviction that it is fair. No honest man should delude himself with the theory that this is a local question. The practical remedy for its coercion or its repression, is indeed local, not national. The citizens of this magnificent commonwealth cannot reach across the Potomac and impose their will respecting suffrage upon the 'Mother of States,' nor can the States of New Ingland dictate legislation to the States of the Northwest. But, as Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe took counsel with Alexander Hamilton, and Dr. Franklin, and Rufu- King, and Roger Sherman—bent upon a common purpose but with regard to every local condition—so will their sons confer fraternally, forbearing until the great problem of the suffrage and all other problems are soived. This is the au-picious result which would appear everywhere in the country, adjusting the bitterest differences.

THE DAY.

The people ought to engage in the celebration of the anniversary of American day cares as is possible to be secured. The American republic is to-day's topic exclusively. It should crowd out all others and so fill the hearts and move upon the emotions of the people that no other can find place, or operate to act upon the sensibilities. The man who sneers at the indifferent to making some display in honor of the occasion, is unworthy of citizenship. If it is no more than a bit of ribbon, a wreath of flowers, cessation from business, the hanging out of a flag or the putting on of holiday attire and giving some hours to enjoyment of the festal tion of the blessings citizenship in the Republic confers

There is not a particle of danger of makis worth a thousand fold more to every Fresno, where the complaint was dismissed American, native or foreign born, than he or she can bear witness to. It is the best day of all the year to the liberty lover; it speaks to him of the manifest destiny of the grandest conception of human government. The anniversary is to him the occasion for introspection, for looking into purpose of administering self-rebuke if he human wisdom, the nearest approach yet made to full recognition of individuality, and the best guarantee ever given of manhood rights.

There is no other people who have so much reason to observe a national holiday with fervor, or to whom the recurrence of such an event is so full of suggestion or so rich in inspiring tradition. Compared to allow the matter to rest here. He will other that promises so much or secures so much to the individual, because there is are so absolutely self-governed. We have, herefore, we repeat, every reason to manifest our satisfaction, to indulge in even noisy exuberance of feeling, and to bear witness before the world with much loud acclaim of our leve and loyalty to the indissoluble Union of free and sovereign

Whoever undervalues the patriotism of the American people must do so from lack of knowledge of them, or from grievous misconception of the loyal-spirit to which the American system is parent. He is little short of blind who does not see below the surface of political contention, and every day attrition in business and governmental policies, that what Holland so happily designated "The National Heart," is beating full and strong with patriotic purpose, and that the efforts of anarchists, the forecast of pessimistic prophets, the schemes of socialists, and the conspiracies of venal men against honest administration of public affairs, affects it scarcely at all.

Out of national life springs the spirit that animates the whole Republic. That life is born of a scheme of civilization and benevolence that cannot be stayed in its march to its highest purpose by the grumbling of the discontented or the dismal prophecies of those of little faith in the plan of self-The drift of events prove this, if anything, that the American nation is steadily progressing, and that the harmony of its plan of evolution has not been disturbed. On the contrary, every activity since the birth of the nation-though for a time some may have been apparently deterrent and destructive-has contributed to the fashioning of this nation more and more symmetrically, and to developing it more and more into that maturity in which the fruit of its endeavor will be fully ripened. The motive of life in the nation to-day is just as lefty, pure, steadfast and persistent as at any time in the history of the Republic. It is clearly defined, and no one who looks beneath the -surface can mistake it. It means constant progression, continued approach to the loftiest ideal of a perfect government, and an unchecked march along the highway of the broadest humanity, marked by the milestones of events that have signalized the achievements of freedom, the guarantees of human rights, and the spread of human knowledge.

There is no nation of earth to-day where men are so absolutely free in person and expression; where the rights of manhood are so absolutely secured to the individual; where the opportunities to If you will remember, a few years ago the political life are so bread; where the citage is so completely and truly representative. zen is so completely and truly responsible word covers only the meaning of another for himself and his success and failures, as in the American nation. There are timid, doubting and discouraged people who do not concur in this bedief, but such have existed in all times, and in all communities of men. The great masses, however, rise to a true conception of the lofty scheme of the American plan, and prove it by that individual conformity to the terms of the compact that secures us laws and their enforcement, property rights and their protection, personal freedom and its enjoyment, and that works out peaceful revolution by which we change the public policy of the country, modify the laws of the nation, or effect any predent and desirable amendment of the system of self-

UNCLE SAM'S HERITAGE.

One hundred years and more have sped Since patriots by their actions said, This country must and shall be free, From tyrants dwelling o'er the sea. Since Patrick Henry's speech inspired Each patriot's soul with Freedom's fires, And gave new life to lukewarm men, Who never realized ti'l then That they must fight the red-coats there Cr ever yield in black despair, To tyrants who their rights ignored, And sought to ru e them with the sword.

Crever yield in black despair,
To tyrants who their rights ignored,
And sought to rue them with the sword.
Since on the plains of Lexinaton
The war for freedom had begun.
Since on the prow of Bunker Hill,
Their brave and noble warriors fell.
That battle taught those red-coats that
Of Freedom's sous they must beware.
That lesson Howe did not forget,
When down in Boston he was set.
Some earthworks raised on yonder heights,
Put him and all his men to flight,
For Washington was in their rear,
And his brave soldiers hald in fear;
Though scantily clad, and poorly fed
On roast potatoes and corn-bread,
Though sore their feet, which often bled,
And stained their tracks on ice and snow,
Through storms of sleet and rain they go,
Still marching on with courage grand
To drive oppression from their land.
Old England's lion loudly roared,
For vengeance on that 'rebel horde,''
And shook his mane with proud grimace,
Aud threatened all of freedom's race
With bondage worse than Israel bore,
Tincrease the wealth of herod's store.
But Freedom's eagle soared on high,
And loud proctaimed the battle cry,
For freedom live, for freedom die,
Nor let King George your fetters tie.
From north to south! From east to west!
He proudly perched on every crest!
And loud his cries for vengeance rose
'Gainst Freedom's most inveterate foes.
King George's men in pomp arrayed
Came o'er the seas with great parade,

Gainst Freedom's most inveterate foes.

King George's men in pomp arrayed

Jame o'er the seas with great parade,

And thought to crush that noble band

Of patriots who, with sword in hand,

Had left their plows at Freedom's call,

And on its altar placed their all.

Brave Arnold's daring, headlong fight,

Burgoyne's trained so diers put to flight.

In Saratoga hemmed at last.

Those tarmer boys did hold them fast,

And made them lay their armor down.

Those farmer boys did hold them fast, and made them lay their armor down, While Gates triumphant marched in town and Burgoyne's sword received in hand, While Yaukee Doodle played the band. Proud Clinton, Gage and Walace, too, Disdained to own those patriots true, As other than a rebel band of England's explicited in the land.

Of England's subjects in the land;
As such they tried to bear them down
On suppliant knee to England's crown.
But Freedom's sons held nobler views,
And manned their ships with valiant crews,
Whose great exploits and daring feats,
Spread terror through the British fleets.
While on the land their forces stroye

They fought till on those fertile plains call many a noble son was slain. Sornwallis pitched his tents at last in Yorktown, where they held him fast, for Washington and Lafayette Their allied forces timely met, and made him drink the bitter cup, Which he made Lincoln prior sup. One hundred years have passed away, and then we celebrate that day, for there the lion's back was broke And broke in twain the British yoke. Once more was heard the eagle's cry as from the earth he soared on high fo spread the news, both far and wide. That victory's gained on Froedom's side.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET.

SAN FRANCISCO. July 3d.
FLOUR—There is no very strong tone to the market. Stocks are not large, but they are quite sufficient to satisfy trade wants. Net eash price for California: Extras, $464 25 $\pi$ bbl; Superfor California: Excras, $464 25 % bbl; Superfine $290 33 25.

WHEAT—No busine is probable this week, as the Produce Exchange has adjourned till next Monday. Harvest accounts are favorable and a much larger yield than was generally anticipated seems to te assured. The market has been very quiet for some time and trade has been of dragging character. It looks at the moment as if matters were likely to brighten in the near future, and that business would be more general and prices shape a trifle in favor of sellers. Standard shipping Wheat is quotable at $1 32½ % ct. BARLEY-There is no life to the market, but many dealers are in hope that an improvemen will occur after the holidays. Some operators however, fail to see anything encouraging in will occur after the holidays. Some operators, however, fail to see anything encouraging in the immediate future. Prices show no strength. We quote: No. 1 Feed, 75-677½c; common grades, 72½c: Brewing, 85@35c for fair to choice. OATS—With large stocks of Oats on hand and low asking prices for feed Barley, it is ot surprising that quotations for all kinds of Oats should show declining tendency. At the present time the market can be said to be in demoralized shape, buyers having all the advantage. We quote prices as follows: Surprise, $145@150; milling, $140@142½; choice feed, $130; No. 1, $122@127½; lower grades, $120@112½; Gray, $120 B ctt.

CONN—The market inclines rather favorably for buyers. Demand light. We quote as follows: Small Yellow, $125@127½; large Yellow, $132½@135; White, $145@150 B ctt.

CRACKED CORN—Quotable at $23@30 B ton. CORNMEAL—Millers quote Feed at $23@31 B ton. SEEDS—Worms have damaged the Mustard crop in some sections, while good accounts as to yield come from other directions. We quote prices as follows: Mustard, Brown, $25@32; Yellow, $175@2 B ctt. Canary, $25@12; Henp, $25@2 B ctt. Canary, $25@3; Yellow, $176@2 B ctt. Canary, $25@2; Yellow, $176@2 B ctt. Canary, $25@2; Peters, $25@2 75 ctt.

MIDDLINGS — Show advancing tendency.
Quotable at $17 50@18 50

HAY—Heavy receipts of late have demoralized the mark t and compelled low selling rates Much Hay is coming to hand on cars and sales have at times to be forced in order to save demurrage. Euyers understand the situation and hold back to the last mome t. We quote: Wheat, $10@ 3; Wheat and Oat, $10@12; Wild Oat, $10@11; Barley, $8@10; Alfalfa, $8@10 $2 ton.

STRAW—Quotable a 35@50c $ bale.

HOPS—Market neglected as regards spot trading. Some inquiry is developing for 1888 Hops, but bidding is limited to $@10c $2$ b, at which rates growers are not dispo-ed to make contracts. Quotations for 1887 Hops are nominally 4@6c $2$ b fer fair to choice.

BRAN—No surplus stock. Quotable at $15 50@16 50 for the best, and $14 50@15 $2$ ton for lower grades and outside brands. of for the best, and $14 50@15 $1 ton for lower des and outside brands.
